THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (AP) - A Trans-Canada Airlines DC8 jetliner crashed and burned Friday night, killing all 118 persons aboard. It was the worst disaster in Canadian aviation history, and the world's second worst single civilian plane crash.

The giant four-engine plane plunged to earth in a driving rainstorm at 6:32 p.m., just four minutes after taking off from Montreal's Dorval Airport on a shuttle flight to Toronto.

BALL OF FIRE

Witnesses said they heard an explosion and saw a red ball of fire as the jet hit the ground.

A call for ambulances was canceled. Police dogs searching for life in the wreckage were called off as the hopelessness of their task became evident.

Under the glare of floodlights searchers saw bodies and wreckage strewn in trees and over an area at least half a mile square.

The plane crashed in an area about midway between Highway 11 and an expressway leading north from Montreal to the Laurentian Mountains resort areas. The crash scene was about three miles northwest of Ste.

Newcomer to Little Theatre, Pauline Varino, proved a significant point. Completely shy, hesitant, and finding refuge only in her glass animals and bigh school nickname, "Blue Roses," she never had to move her lines with any "punch" across the footlights. Contrary to many theatrical theories, she did not try to push the part, but she got into it thoroughly and let it carry her through. Hers was an outstanding job for a Little Theatre "first."

Castroism Moves South

While the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is in the limelight in the United States because Lee Harvey Oswald's connection with it in Dallas, Castro terrorists are in action in Venezuela.

A uniformed deputy chief of the U.S. military mission in Caracas was kidnaped by four heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists near his home this week. Colonel James K. Chenault of Sherman, Texas was the victim. His captors later called the U.S. Embassy switchboard and said Colonel Chenault would not be harmed.

"We only want him for progaganda purposes," the anonymous caller said.

There was a time when such an assault on an American officer while he was in uniform and on duty would have been considered a serious international incident. Apparently, that is not the case these days. There seems to be a tendency to shrug off happenings which bear directly or indirectly on our nation's defense and posture among nations.

The wave of communist terrorism in Venezuela is not new. It has been in progress for at least a year and a half — since the Venezuelan government outlawed the Communist Party.

Many months ago, the leader of that Latin American country's Reds, Gustavo Machado, told an American reporter:

"When all legal roads are closed, then we will resort to full violence."

It appears now that this was no idle boast. Caracas has been experiencing what amounts to a brush-fire war. For months, the Reds have raided industries mainly those financed by North American capital — and harassed the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

A presidential election is scheduled in Venezuela for December 1, and the outbreak of violence is part of a communist-led effort to disrupt law and order as a plan to disrupt the election.

Why should Venezuela be chosen

for such a target? It is one of the wealthiest countries in Latin America. Communism is supposed to work best where there is the lowest ebb of poverty and unemploy-

This is a false assumption. Following World War II, the Soviet government did not seize the poorest nations in Europe, but headed for the industrial areas in East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Now, the communists want a springboard in Latin America. Fidel Castro's revolution in Cuba furnished a good base of operations. But the movement needs more developed industry. So through Castro's cooperation, the Reds are trying to expand their New World beachhead.

Fidelismo is pro - Castroism, which is another name for communism among Latin Americans. The Castro wing in Venezuela the same group which kidnaped Colonel Chenault — is led by men trained in Cuba or Moscow. It is financed, supported, trained and supplied with arms from Cuba.

Thus is Venezuela a Castro target because it is within easy reach of Cuba across the Caribbean. It is rich in oil, which the communists want for their new position in world trade. Its falling to Castro under the very eyes of the United States would serve as an example to the remaining nations of Latin America.

It is unfortunate that President Betancourt himself is a former leftwinger and a relatively ineffective opponent of Soviet aggre-

Venezuelan communists and those exported from Cuba have not found it too difficult to infiltrate student movements, labor unions, the press and other areas of government and business.

There is street fighting and kidnapping in Venezuela now. Tomorrow there might be just such steps as those which brought Castro to Cuba and the Soviet missile installations in 1962. The United States cannot say this is something completely new.

Oil And 'Outflow'

The balance of payments problem is one of the most series this country faces. It results from the fact that the outflow of money from this to other nations has been much greater than the inflow from them to us. The major consequence, and it is an exceedingly grave one, has been erosion of the gold supply which backs our cur-

At the same time, some enterprises, operating internationally, highly valuable elements in preventing the problem from becoming worse. Oil is one. A survey has been made of the foreign activities of some 200 U.S. companies engaged in international oil operations. These produced a net inflow to the United States of more than $638 million in 1962.

This was not an isolated instance. There was a net payments surplus in each of the last five years, and the trend has been upward.

Moreover, the survey finds, the favorable balances seem likely to continue and increase. Free world petroleum demand, outside the U. S., has risen dramatically nearly 50 per cent in that same five year period. Continuation of the trend is confidently expected. The U.S. oil industry will be a major participant in the growth.

Oil makes enormous contributions to the economic life of the nation, our standards of living and our military security. Now we see it is a force which strongly supports our international financial position. This, in a chaotic world, is of the utmost consequence.

Taking It Straight

There is one more law that might well be adopted by the United States and by the various states of the union. It might be wise to enact a law forbidding the passage of any foolish law.

Take one law in New Jersey, for instance. The alcoholic beverage control law of that state prohibits bar rooms from selling chewing gum, life savers, digestive aids and breath-sweeteners.

This seems to mean that if anyone in New Jersey wants to go into a bar and take a drink, he must abide by the consequences, without any opportunity at mitigation.

A man can't even ease his stomach, his conscience or his breath. He can't fool his friends or his wife into thinking he has not been drinking - not that he'd be likely to fool them long anyhow.

Now we must ask what good this law really does — and, if it doesn't do any good, why have it? Congress has decreed that medicine must be proved beneficial before it can be used. Now, maybe it should be required to prove laws will be beneficial before they can be enacted.

King Tutankhamun of ancient Egypt fervently desired to live forever, yet he died at about 20. His famous tomb was lavishly equipped with possessions for him to enjoy in afterlife.

Congressman Sent Letter Warning Of Red Killers

WASHINGTON — It was a dum-dum bullet that shattered the head and life of President F. Kennedy. That's what the Dallas doc-

Representative Edwin Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has sent veteran investigators to Dallas to dig into Lee Oswald's leftist background and trips to Russia and Mexico.

Fifteen days before he was shot down. President Kennedy was warned that assassins were being trained in Russia to commit murders in the U.S. and England.

This warning was voiced in a letter Representative Charles Kirsten, R., Milwaukee, sent to the late President and his brothers, Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Senator Edward Kennedy, Mass, Kirsten knew the President for many years, having served with him on the House Labor Committee.

The burden of Kirsten's letter was an effort to obtain administration help in focusing public attention on the assassination of Stepan Bandera, the Ukranian underground leader, by Communist agents. In urging this, Kirsten wrote:

"THE SENATE Internal Security subcommittee has been contemplating a hearing of the killing in Munich of the Ukrainian underground leader, Stephen Bandera, by the former Soviet agent Bogden Stashynsky. It was a bizarre assassination illustrating the subversive operations of the Soviet police in the free world. Apparently the State Department is trying to prevent the hearing.

Union President Hits Automation

When President George Meany of the AFL-CIO warns that automation is a "curse" that could bring the United States to "a national catastrophe," he sounds like the Luddites who attempted to break the machines which ushered in the Industrial Revolution. Or, perhaps, like the theoretician of error, Karl Marx, who was convinced that industrialization under capitalism would bring endless and increasing misery to the working class - the "proletariat" to him.

Both Marx and those who tried to stop the course of industrial progress were, wrong. The machine, which seemed certain to put millions out of work and debase humanity, inushered in an era in which the living standards of white collar and blue collar workers have risen steadily -and in which the gap between the high-income and low-income groups has steadily closed.

AUTOMATION, a word but fifteen years old according to the sociologists, has now replaced the bugaboo of mechanization. The word, however, means different things to different people - and the best economists in the AFL - CIO (when they are not talking for publication) will admit that many of the fears expressed at negotiating sessions are ground-

Why then is Mr. Meany attempting to turn back the clock? History and experience have shown that increased mechanization - and that, basically, is what automation consists of today - does not depress the economy, but on the contrary stimulates it. The many machines being used which "automate" office work, for example, have added to employment.

With few exceptions, more over, the authorities agree that whatever dislocation may be caused by automation, it is temporary. Men are put out of one kind of work, but they are usually reabsorbed by the labor force. Only in such industries as coal mining, where the miners for the most part refuse to leave the towns which fringe the coal fields, is there persistent unemployment. And this is caused more by the decline of coal as a major fuel than by automa-

fect of the economy but the im mediate effect on their unions As the nation automates, the na ture of the labor force changes drastically. White collar workers, hard to unionize, become the dominant unit. The blue collarworker, still the backbone of present-day unions, is edged out. The unskilled find it hard to find jobs. As a result, the trade unions are shrinking in membership and, perhaps more fearsome to the labor leader, losing their political hold. It will .take some time before the politicians come to realize this. There is always a lag in political thinking. But when they do, it will be a bad blow to the AFL-CIO and to all organized labor.

The effect of automation is really not an economic one but a social one. An automating society puts high value on skills that come with education. Eventually, it will create a middle class "proletariat." which will find itself resistant to the appeal of the union organizer.

THIS SHIFT in the nature of employment comes at a time when labor is beset by another problem: the shift from production to service. By that I mean the steady decline of production workers as compared to those in service industries.

For the labor leaders, this means another loss in membership. It is the production unions which filled the trade union ranks. The service industries are being invaded by James Hoffa of the Teamsters, but with no real success. In time, the unions may find ways and means to apply a compulsoryunion principle to service industries, but so far the formula has not been found.

Mr. Meany's panic can be understood. But those who write his speeches know that in an economic sense automation is a boon, moving ahead toward days of less and less physical drudgery or mental monotony for those who produce the nation's goods. It is also our answer to the growing threat of foreign competition in the world market.

NOTHING Mr. Meany can say or do will halt the advance of automation. He can stand like King Canute, but the tide will not recede at his command What labor should be doing at this time is to put its best minds to work so that the transition will be as painless and rapid as possible.

Tight Security Stifles Johnson

Secret Service has moved swiftto tighten its protective screen around the President a move that will run against the grain of Lyndon B. John-

Even more than President Kennedy, Mr. Johnson has practiced the brand of politics that thrives on shaking the hands of mobs of strangers and and waving to throngs that line the routes of parades.

At Secret Service insistence, there will be far less of this public exposure for President Johnson. As the Secret Service has known for years, is is almost defenseless against the kind of tortured, solitary assassin that has taken the lives of four Presidents and almost killed another before he took office.

THIS TYPE of man is usually the one with a vague grudge no different from thousands of other misfits. There is nothing to indicate the grudge will suddenly crystallize into a drive to kill a chief of state - usually with no thought of escaping punishment.

Such was Leon F. Czolgosz who had harbored anarchistic views much as other members of a small fringe group. Then in 1901 he joined a line of people waiting to shake the hand of President McKinley in Buffalo and shot him at pointblank range. Czolgosz had no chance to escape. The Secret Service had warned McKinley of the danger he faced in his frequent hand-shaking sessions, but the President ignored the warnings

There was nothing in the background of Charles Guiteau, except for the refusal of President Garfield to give him a patronage job, to foreshadow Guiteau's fatal shooting of Garfield in the Washington railroad station in 1881.

Giuseppe Zangara was mere a discontented bricklayer when he suddenly appeared at a political rally in Miami in 1933 and fired at Presidentelect Franklin D. Roosevelt, hitting Chicago Mayor Anton Cermak instead.

The assassination of Abraham Lincoln would never have occurred if there had been a semblence of the type of protection now provided a president when he attends a theater performance or any other public occasion. As an actor, John Wilkes Booth might have reached the presidential box and been able to pull a gun. Unlike the other assassins, however, there is good reason to believe Booth was not indifferent to the consequences. He had carefully planned his escape and with luck might never have been apprehended.

When a North Care lina truck driver managed to break through the front gate of recently he was surrounded by a small regiment of agents and guards before he reached the front portico.

The Secret Service tells little about its methods. The money spent for protection of the pres ident, the vice-president and their families is hidden in an overall sum that includes a much larger amount for chas ing counterfeiters and jobs. There are reportedly 58 agents permanently in the White House detail. At least twice as many are used when the President travels.

AS MANY as 1,000 threaten ing letters reach the White House every year, all of which are checked out from Secret Service field offices. Every rum or of a plot against the Pres dent's life is investigated. Many of the 600 people who show up the White House gate de manding to see the President are questioned.

The potential threats almost invariably turn out to be the work of cranks. It is perhaps significant, however, that the number of threats Kennedy received each year was half again as many as came addressed to President Eisenhower.

The airplanes and helicopters used by the President are under constant military guard. Every auditorium where he is sched uled to speak is checked in ad vance to make sure there is no unprotected entrance or any hidden vantage points from which a gun could be fired.

FOR THE inaugural parades in Washington a remarkable operation is carried out to inspect every building along the route Guards recruited from a dozen city police forces are stationed on almost every floor. Others mingled with the crowds.

For an open-air parade, in a distant city, however, an army would be required to police every possible cranny where an assassin might hide. The Secret Service has long known that a parade is the real weakness in their defense.

can't say no. The only way you will ever find out is by giving it a try. Do I recommend it? Frankly, yes. That is the theme of my recently published book, "Your Life to Enjoy."

WE ONLY live once. Each of us should be allowed the choice, so long as we do not go into it blindly. Smoking an occasional cigar and taking a highball might kick up the ulcer in a dozen other similar patients but not in you. You can't tell until you try.

Besides, you are over 70. You owe it to yourself to partake of these enjoyments. I believe that people who have fulfilled the promise of the Bible, 70 years, should not have to answer to the same rules and health regulations as younger persons. They have already proved themselves. They have overcome potential infections, accidents, illstresses; sufficient enough to live long.

Why suddenly say, "Better not have that cigar; lung cancer, you know. And better not have that highball; cirrhosis of the liver, you know.'

IF YOUR dieting has helped your ulcer, Mr. B., by all means continue with it. Take up the challenge and leap into the tobacco and alcohol pool. (Although an occasional eigar and highball is more of a small puddle than a deep pool.) You may find that your old ulcer behaves as well as before.

Castroism Moves South

While the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is in the limelight in the United States because Lee Harvev Oswald's connection with it in Dallas, Castro terrorists are in action in Venezuela.

A uniformed deputy chief of the U.S. military mission in Caracas was kidnaped by four heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists near his home this week. Colonel James K. Chenault of Sherman, Texas was the victim. His captors later called the U.S. Embassy switchboard and said Colonel Chenault would not be harmed.

"We only want him for progaganda purposes," the anonymous caller said.

There was a time when such an assault on an American officer while he was in uniform and on duty would have been considered a serious international incident. Apparently, that is not the case these days. There seems to be a tendency to shrug off happenings which bear directly or indirectly on our nation's defense and posture among nations.

The wave of communist terrorism in Venezuela is not new. It has been in progress for at least a year and a half - since the Venezuelan government outlawed the Communist Party.

Many months ago, the leader of that Latin American country's Beds, Gustavo Machado, told an American reporter:

It appears now that this was no idle boast. Caracas has been experiencing what amounts to a brush-fire war. For months, the Reds have raided industries mainly those financed by North American capital — and harassed the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

A presidential election is scheduled in Venezuela for December 1, and the outbreak of violence is part of a communist-led effort to disrupt law and order as a plan to disrupt the election.

Why should Venezuela be chosen

for such a target? It is one of the wealthiest countries in Latin America. Communism is supposed to work best where there is the lowest ebb of poverty and unemploy-

This is a false assumption. Following World War II, the Soviet government did not seize the poorest nations in Europe, but headed for the industrial areas in East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Now, the communists want a springboard in Latin America. Fidel Castro's revolution in Cuba furnished a good base of operations. But the movement needs more developed industry. So through Castro's cooperation, the Reds are trying to expand their New World beachhead.

Fidelismo is pro - Castroism, which is another name for communism among Latin Americans. The Castro wing in Venezuela the same group which kidnaped Colonel Chenault - is led by men trained in Cuba or Moscow. It is financed, supported, trained and supplied with arms from Cuba.

Thus is Venezuela a Castro target because it is within easy reach of Cuba across the Caribbean. It is rich in oil, which the communists want for their new position in world trade. Its falling to Castro under the very eyes of the United States would serve as an example to the remaining nations of Latin

It is unfortunate that President Betancourt himself is a former leftwinger and a relatively ineffective opponent of Soviet aggre-

Venezuelan communists and those exported from Cuba have not found it too difficult to infiltrate student movements, labor unions, the press and other areas of government and business.

There is street fighting and kidnapping in Venezuela now. Tomorrow there might be just such steps as those which brought Castro to Cuba and the Soviet missile installations in 1962. The United States cannot say this is something completely new.

Oil And 'Outflow'

The balance of payments problem is one of the most series this country faces. It results from the fact that the outflow of money from this to other nations has been much greater than the inflow from them to us. The major consequence, and it is an exceedingly grave one, has been erosion of the gold supply which backs our cur-

At the same time, some enterprises, operating internationally, highly valuable elements in preventing the problem from becoming worse. Oil is one. A survey has been made of the foreign activities of some 200 U.S. companies engaged in international oil operations. These produced a net inflow to the United States of more than $638 million in 1962.

This was not an isolated instance. There was a net payments surplus in each of the last five years, and the trend has been upward.

Moreover, the survey finds, the favorable balances seem likely to continue and increase. Free world petroleum demand, outside the U. S., has risen dramatically nearly 50 per cent in that same five year period. Continuation of the trend is confidently expected. The U.S. oil industry will be a major participant in the growth.

Oil makes enormous contributions to the economic life of the nation, our standards of living and our military security. Now we see it is a force which strongly supports our international financial position. This, in a chaotic world, is of the utmost consequence.

Taking It Straight

There is one more law that might well be adopted by the United States and by the various states of the union. It might be wise to enact a law forbidding the passage of any foolish law.

Take one law in New Jersey, for instance. The alcoholic beverage control law of that state prohibits bar rooms from selling chewing gum, life savers, digestive aids and breath-sweeteners.

This seems to mean that if anyone in New Jersey wants to go into a bar and take a drink, he must abide by the consequences, without any opportunity at mitigation.

A man can't even ease his stomach, his conscience or his breath. He can't fool his friends or his wife into thinking he has not been drinking - not that he'd be likely to fool them long anyhow.

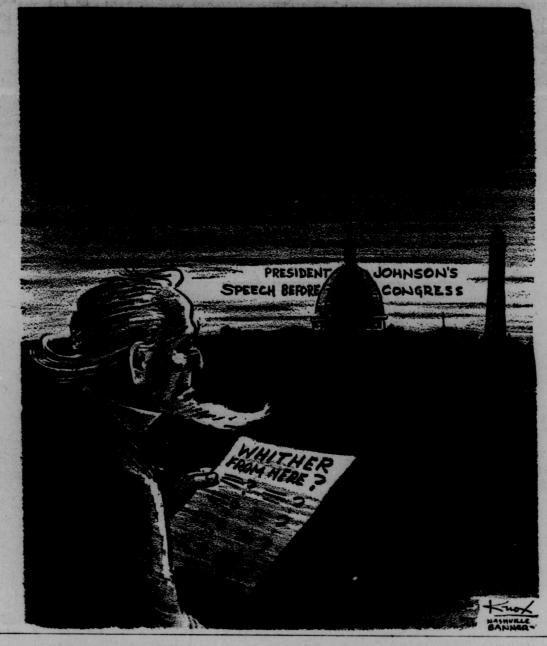

Now we must ask what good this law really does - and, if it doesn't do any good, why have it? Congress has decreed that medicine must be proved beneficial before it can be used. Now, maybe it should be required to prove laws will be beneficial before they can be enacted.

Fifteen days before he was shot down, President Kennedy was warned that assassins were being trained in Russia to commit murders in the U. S. and England.

This warning was voiced in a letter Representative Charles Kirsten, R., Milwaukee, sent to the late President and his brothers, Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Senator Edward Kennedy, Mass. Kirsten knew the President for many years, having served with him on the House Labor Committee.

The burden of Kirsten's letter was an effort to obtain administration help in focusing public attention on the assassination of Stepan Bandera, the Ukranian underground leader, by Communist agents. In urging this, Kirsten wrote:

"THE SENATE Internal Security subcommittee has been contemplating a hearing of the killing in Munich of the Ukrainian underground leader, Stephen Bandera, by the former Soviet agent Bogden Stashynsky. It was a bizarre assassination illustrating the subversive opera-tions of the Soviet police in the free world. Apparently the State Department is trying to prevent the hearing.

Castroism Moves South

While the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is in the limelight in the United States because Lee Harvey Oswald's connection with it in Dallas, Castro terrorists are in action in Venezuela.

A uniformed deputy chief of the U.S. military mission in Caracas was kidnaped by four heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists near his home this week. Colonel James K. Chenault of Sherman, Texas was the victim. His captors later called the U.S. Embassy switchboard and said Colonel Chenault would not be harmed.

"We only want him for progaganda purposes," the anonymous caller said.

There was a time when such an assault on an American officer while he was in uniform and on duty would have been considered a serious international incident. Apparently, that is not the case these days. There seems to be a tendency to shrug off happenings which bear directly or indirectly on our nation's defense and posture among nations.

The wave of communist terrorism in Venezuela is not new. It has been in progress for at least a year and a half — since the Venezuelan government outlawed the Communist Party.

Many months ago, the leader of that Latin American country's Reds, Gustavo Machado, told an American reporter:

It appears now that this was no idle boast. Caracas has been experiencing what amounts to a brush-fire war. For months, the Reds have raided industries mainly those financed by North American capital — and harassed the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

A presidential election is scheduled in Venezuela for December 1, and the outbreak of violence is part of a communist-led effort to disrupt law and order as a plan to disrupt the election.

Why should Venezuela be chosen

for such a target? It is one of the wealthiest countries in Latin America. Communism is supposed to work best where there is the lowest ebb of poverty and unemploy-

This is a false assumption. Following World War II, the Soviet government did not seize the poorest nations in Europe, but headed for the industrial areas in East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Now, the communists want a springboard in Latin America. Fidel Castro's revolution in Cuba furnished a good base of operations. But the movement needs more developed industry. So through Castro's cooperation, the Reds are trying to expand their New World beachhead.

Fidelismo is pro - Castroism, which is another name for communism among Latin Americans. The Castro wing in Venezuela the same group which kidnaped Colonel Chenault — is led by men trained in Cuba or Moscow. It is financed, supported, trained and supplied with arms from Cuba.

Thus is Venezuela a Castro target because it is within easy reach of Cuba across the Caribbean. It is rich in oil, which the communists want for their new position in world trade. Its falling to Castro under the very eyes of the United States would serve as an example to the remaining nations of Latin

It is unfortunate that President Betancourt himself is a former leftwinger and a relatively ineffective opponent of Soviet aggre-

Venezuelan communists and those exported from Cuba have not found it too difficult to infiltrate student movements, labor unions, the press and other areas of government and business.

There is street fighting and kidnapping in Venezuela now. Tomorrow there might be just such steps as those which brought Castro to Cuba and the Soviet missile installations in 1962. The United States cannot say this is something completely new.

Oil And 'Outflow'

The balance of payments problem is one of the most series this country faces. It results from the fact that the outflow of money from this to other nations has been much greater than the inflow from them to us. The major consequence, and it is an exceedingly grave one, has been erosion of the gold supply which backs our cur-

At the same time, some enterprises, operating internationally, highly valuable elements in preventing the problem from becoming worse. Oil is one. A survey has been made of the foreign activities of some 200 U.S. companies engaged in international oil operations. These produced a net inflow to the United States of more than $638 million in 1962.

This was not an isolated instance. There was a net payments surplus in each of the last five years, and the trend has been upward.

Moreover, the survey finds, the favorable balances seem likely to continue and increase. Free world petroleum demand, outside the U. S., has risen dramatically nearly 50 per cent in that same five year period. Continuation of the trend is confidently expected. The U.S. oil industry will be a major participant in the growth.

Oil makes enormous contributions to the economic life of the nation, our standards of living and our military security. Now we see it is a force which strongly supports our international financial position. This, in a chaotic world, is of the utmost consequence.

Taking It Straight

There is one more law that might well be adopted by the United States and by the various states of the union. It might be wise to enact a law forbidding the passage of any foolish law.

Take one law in New Jersey, for instance. The alcoholic beverage control law of that state prohibits bar rooms from selling chewing gum, life savers, digestive aids and breath-sweeteners.

This seems to mean that if anyone in New Jersey wants to go into a bar and take a drink, he must abide by the consequences, without any opportunity at mitigation.

A man can't even ease his stomach, his conscience or his breath. He can't fool his friends or his wife into thinking he has not been drinking - not that he'd be likely to fool them long anyhow.

Now we must ask what good this law really does — and, if it doesn't do any good, why have it? Congress has decreed that medicine must be proved beneficial before it can be used. Now, maybe it should be required to prove laws will be beneficial before they can

Congressman Sent Letter Warning Of Red Killers

WASHINGTON - It was a dum-dum bullet that shattered the head and life of President F. Kennedy.

That's what the Dallas doctors who attended him have told the FBI.

They stated the dum-dum bullet fragmented when it hit the President, shattering a portion of his head and neck.

Dallas police, who have confirmed this medical finding to the FBI, have matched bullet fragments removed from the President and the car he was riding in with the spent shells found in the warehouse.

THESE SHELLS definitely were fired from the rifle the suspected assassin bought from a mail order company.

Representative Edwin Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has sent veteran investigators to Dallas to dig into Lee Oswald's leftist background and trips to Russia and Mexico.

Fifteen days before he was shot down. President Kennedy was warned that assassins were being trained in Russia to commit murders in the U.S. and England.

This warning was voiced in a letter Representative Charles Kirsten, R., Milwaukee, sent to the late President and his brothers, Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Senator Edward Kennedy, Mass. Kirsten knew the President for many years, having served with him on the House Labor Committee.

THE WISCONSIN legislator never received a reply to his warning from any of the Ken-nedys. The burden of Kirsten's letter was an effort to obtain administration help in focusing public attention on the assassination of Stepan Bandera, the Ukranian underground leader, by Communist agents. In urging this, Kirsten wrote:

Union President Hits Automation

When President George Meany of the AFL-CIO warns that automation is a "curse" that could bring the United States to "a national catastrophe," he sounds like the Luddites who attempted to break the machines which ushered in the Industrial Revolution. Or. perhaps, like the theoretician of error, Karl Marx, who was convinced that industrialization under capitalism would bring endless and increasing misery to the working class — the "proletariat" to him.

Both Marx and those who tried to stop the course of industrial progress were, wrong. The machine, which seemed certain to put millions out of work and debase humanity, instead ushered in an era in which the living standards of white collar and blue collar workers have risen steadily and in which the gap between the high-income and low-income groups has steadily closed.

AUTOMATION, a word but fifteen years old according to the sociologists, has now replaced the bugaboo of mechanization. The word, however, means different things to different people - and the best economists in the AFL - CIO (when they are not talking for publication) will admit that many of the fears expressed at negotiating sessions are ground-

Why then is Mr. Meany attempting to turn back the clock? History and experience have shown that increased mechanization — and that, basically, is what automation consists of today - does not depress the economy, but on the contrary stimulates it. The many machines being used which "automate" office work, for example, have added to employment.

With few exceptions, moreover, the authorities agree that whatever dislocation may be caused by automation, it is temporary. Men are put out of one kind of work, but they are usually reabsorbed by the labor force. Only in such industries as coal market. mining, where the miners for NOTHING Mr. Meany can the most part refuse to leave the towns which fringe the coal fields, is there persistent unemployment. And this is caused more by the decline of coal as a major fuel than by automa-

fect of the economy but the immediate effect on their unions. As the nation automates, the nature of the labor force changes drastically. White collar workers, hard to unionize, become the dominant unit. The blue col-

larworker, still the backbone of present-day unions, is edged out. The unskilled find it hard to find jobs. As a result, the trade unions are shrinking in membership and, perhaps more fearsome to the labor leader, losing their political hold. It will .take some time before the politicians come to realize this. There is always a lag in political thinking. But when they do, it will be a bad blow to the AFL-CIO and to all organized labor.

The effect of automation is really not an economic one but a social one. An automating society puts high value on skills that come with education. Eventually, it will create a middle class "proletariat." which will find itself resistant to the appeal of the union organizer.

THIS SHIFT in the nature of employment comes at a time when labor is beset by another problem: the shift from production to service. By that I mean the steady decline of production workers as compared to those in service industries.

For the labor leaders, this means another loss in membership. It is the production unions which filled the trade union ranks. The service industries are being invaded by James Hoffa of the Teamsters, but with no real success. In time, the unions may find ways and means to apply a compulsoryunion principle to service in dustries, but so far the formula has not been found.

Mr. Meany's panic can be un derstood. But those who write his speeches know that in an economic sense automation is a boon, moving ahead toward days of less and less physical drudgery or mental monotony for those who produce the nation's goods. It is also our answer to the growing threat of foreign competition in the world say or do will halt the advance of automation. He can stand like King Canute, but the tide will not recede at his command. What labor should be doing at this time is to put its best minds to work so that the transition will be as painless and rapid as possible.

Tight Security Stifles Johnson

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Secret Service has moved swiftto tighten its protective screen around the President a move that will run against the grain of Lyndon B. John-

Even more than President Kennedy. Mr. Johnson has practiced the brand of politics that thrives on shaking the hands of mobs of strangers and and waving to throngs that line the routes of parades.

At Secret Service insistence, there will be far less of this public exposure for President Johnson. As the Secret Service has known for years, is is almost defenseless against the kind of tortured, solitary assassin that has taken the lives of four Presidents and almost killed another before he took office.

THIS TYPE of man is usually the one with a vague grudge no different from thousands of other misfits. There is nothing to indicate the grudge will suddenly crystallize into a drive to kill a chief of state - usually with no thought of escaping punishment.

Such was Leon F. Czolgosz who had harbored anarchistic views much as other members of a small fringe group. Then in 1901 he joined a line of people waiting to shake the hand of President McKinley in Buffalo and shot him at pointblank range. Czolgosz had no chance to escape. The Secret Service had warned McKinley of the danger he faced in his frequent hand-shaking sessions, but the President ignored the warnings.

There was nothing in the background of Charles Guiteau, except for the refusal of President Garfield to give him a patronage job, to foreshadow Guiteau's fatal shooting of Gar field in the Washington railroad station in 1881.

Giuseppe Zangara was mere ly a discontented bricklayer when he suddenly appeared at a political rally in Miami in 1933 and fired at President elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, hitting Chicago Mayor Anton Cermak instead.

The assassination of Abraham Lincoln would never have occurred if there had been a semblence of the type of protection now provided a president when he attends a theater performance or any other public occasion. As an actor, John Wilkes Booth might have reached the presidential box and been able to pull a gun. Unlike the other assassins, however. there is good reason to believe Booth was not indifferent to the consequences. He had carefully planned his escape and with luck might never have been apprehended.

The effectiveness - and bravery - of the Secret Service and shown in 1950 when two Puerto Rican nationalists staged hopeless, useless attack on Blair House, the temporary residence of President Truman They killed one policeman and wounded two others but inevit able were shot down. One died and the other sentenced to life imprisonment after recovering from gunshot wounds.

THE WHITE House is about as well guarded as such an establishment can be without a 60-foot wall around it. The guards are unobtrusive but numerous. When a North Care lina truck driver managed to break through the front gate of recently he was surrounded by a small regiment of agents and guards before he reached the front portico.

The Secret Service tells little about its methods. The money spent for protection of the pres ident, the vice-president and their families is hidden in an overall sum that includes a much larger amount for chas ing counterfeiters and other jobs. There are reportedly 58 agents permanently in the White House detail. At least twice as many are used when the President travels.

AS MANY as 1,000 threaten ing letters reach the White House every year, all of which are checked out from Secret Service field offices. Every rum or of a plot against the Presi dent's life is investigated. Many of the 600 people who show up at the White House gate de manding to see the President are questioned.

The potential threats almost invariably turn out to be the work of cranks. It is perhaps significant, however, that the number of threats Kennedy received each year was half again as many as came addressed to President Eisenhower.

The airplanes and helicopters used by the President are under constant military guard. Every auditorium where he is sched uled to speak is checked in ad vance to make sure there is no unprotected entrance or any hidden vantage points from which a gun could be fired.

FOR THE inaugural parades in Washington a remarkable op 🐴 eration is carried out to inspect every building along the route Guards recruited from a dozen city police forces are stationed on almost every floor. Others mingled with the crowds.

For an open-air parade, in a distant city, however, an arm; would be required to police every possible cranny where an assassin might hide. The Secret Service has long known that a parade is the real weakness in their defense.

The image of the popular, fearless president is so ingrained in the American tradition. however, that Presidents have always felt obliged to ignore White House police was at least partially - the Secret Service warnings.

Occasional Cigar Not Ruled Out

Dear Dr. Steinerohn: Am in my late 70s (partially retired) and have a quiescent duodenal ulcer, thanks to dieting. Otherwise excellent health except I do not have as much energy as 40 years ago.

sional cigar or cocktail at several weeks interval have any ill effects on my health and life span? — Mr. B.

can't say no. The only way you will ever find out is by giving it a try. Do I recommend it? Frankly, yes. That is the theme of my recently published book, "Your Life to Enjoy."

WE ONLY live once. Each of us should be allowed the choice, so long as we do not go into it blindly. Smoking an occasional cigar and taking a highball might kick up the ulcer in a dozen other similar patients but not in you. You can't tell until you try.

Besides, you are over 70. You owe it to yourself to partake of these enjoyments. I believe that people who have fulfilled the promise of the Bible, 70 years, should not have to answer to the same rules and health regulations as younger persons. They have already proved themselves. They have overcome potential infections, accidents, illnesses, stresses: enough to live long.

Why suddenly say, "Better not have that eigar; lung cancer, you know. And better not have that highball; cirrhosis of the liver, you know."

IF YOUR dieting has helped your ulcer, Mr. B., by all means continue with it. Take up the challenge and leap into the tobacco and alcohol pool. (Although an occasional cigar and highball is more of a small puddle than a deep pool.) You may find that your old ulcer behaves as well as before.

MENTAL ILLNESS INHERITED?

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Is mental illness inherited? I am 25 years old. I have a wonderful husband and two healthy children. I wonder if you could ease my mind. My mother has

As for yourself, I'm not being pollyannish when I say that you may sail through your change of life (quite a few years away!) without even knowing you're passing through it. ### Castroism Moves South

While the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is in the limelight in the United States because Lee Harvey Oswald's connection with it in Dallas, Castro terrorists are in action in Venezuela.

A uniformed deputy chief of the U.S. military mission in Caracas was kidnaped by four heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists near his home this week. Colonel James K. Chenault of Sherman, Texas was the victim. His captors later called the U.S. Embassy switchboard and said Colonel Chenault would not be harmed.

"We only want him for progaganda purposes," the anonymous caller said.

There was a time when such an assault on an American officer while he was in uniform and on duty would have been considered a serious international incident. Apparently, that is not the case these days. There seems to be a tendency to shrug off happenings which bear directly or indirectly on our nation's defense and posture among nations.

The wave of communist terrorism in Venezuela is not new. It has been in progress for at least a year and a half - since the Venezuelan government outlawed the Communist Party.

Many months ago, the leader of that Latin American country's Reds, Gustavo Machado, told an American reporter:

It appears now that this was no idle boast. Caracas has been experiencing what amounts to a brush-fire war. For months, the Reds have raided industries mainly those financed by North American capital — and harassed the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

A presidential election is scheduled in Venezuela for December 1, and the outbreak of violence is part of a communist-led effort to disrupt law and order as a plan to disrupt the election.

Why should Venezuela be chosen

for such a target? It is one of the wealthiest countries in Latin America. Communism is supposed to work best where there is the lowest ebb of poverty and unemploy-

This is a false assumption. Following World War II, the Soviet government did not seize the poorest nations in Europe, but headed for the industrial areas in East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Now, the communists want a springboard in Latin America. Fidel Castro's revolution in Cuba furnished a good base of operations. But the movement needs more developed industry. So through Castro's cooperation, the Reds are trying to expand their New World beachhead.

Fidelismo is pro - Castroism. which is another name for communism among Latin Americans. The Castro wing in Venezuela the same group which kidnaped Colonel Chenault — is led by men trained in Cuba or Moscow. It is financed, supported, trained and supplied with arms from Cuba.

Thus is Venezuela a Castro target because it is within easy reach of Cuba across the Caribbean. It is rich in oil, which the communists want for their new position in world trade. Its falling to Castro under the very eyes of the United States would serve as an example to the remaining nations of Latin

It is unfortunate that President Betancourt himself is a former leftwinger and a relatively ineffective opponent of Soviet aggre-

Venezuelan communists and those exported from Cuba have not found it too difficult to infiltrate student movements, labor unions, the press and other areas of government and business.

There is street fighting and kidnapping in Venezuela now. Tomorrow there might be just such steps as those which brought Castro to Cuba and the Soviet missile installations in 1962. The United States cannot say this is something completely new.

Oil And 'Outflow'

The balance of payments problem is one of the most series this country faces. It results from the fact that the outflow of money from this to other nations has been much greater than the inflow from them to us. The major consequence, and it is an exceedingly grave one, has been erosion of the gold supply which backs our currency.

At the same time, some enterprises, operating internationally, highly valuable elements in preventing the problem from becoming worse. Oil is one. A survey has been made of the foreign activities of some 200 U.S. companies engaged in international oil operations. These produced a net inflow to the United States of more than $638 million in 1962.

This was not an isolated instance. There was a net payments surplus in each of the last five years, and the trend has been upward.

Moreover, the survey finds, the favorable balances seem likely to continue and increase. Free world petroleum demand, outside the U. S., has risen dramatically nearly 50 per cent in that same five year period. Continuation of the trend is confidently expected. The U.S. oil industry will be a major participant in the growth.

Oil makes enormous contributions to the economic life of the nation, our standards of living and our military security. Now we see it is a force which strongly supports our international financial position. This, in a chaotic world, is of the utmost consequence.

Taking It Straight

There is one more law that might well be adopted by the United States and by the various states of the union. It might be wise to enact a law forbidding the passage of any foolish law.

Take one law in New Jersey, for instance. The alcoholic beverage control law of that state prohibits bar rooms from selling chewing gum, life savers, digestive aids and breath-sweeteners.

This seems to mean that if anyone in New Jersey wants to go into a bar and take a drink, he must abide by the consequences, without any opportunity at mitigation.

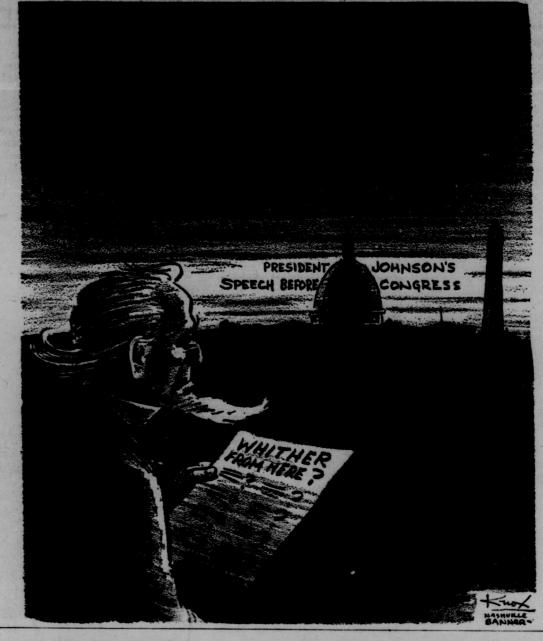

A man can't even ease his stomach, his conscience or his breath. He can't fool his friends or his wife into thinking he has not been drinking - not that he'd be likely to fool them long anyhow.

Now we must ask what good this law really does - and, if it doesn't do any good, why have it? Congress has decreed that medicine must be proved beneficial before it can be used. Now, maybe it should be required to prove laws will be beneficial before they can be enacted.

King Tutankhamun of ancient Egypt fervently desired to live forever, yet he died at about 20. His famous tomb was lavishly equipped with possessions for him to enjoy in afterlife.

Tight Security

Stifles Johnson

THE WHITE House is about as well guarded as such an establishment can be without a 60-foot wall around it. The guards are unobtrusive but numerous. When a North Caro-lina truck driver managed to break through the front gate of recently he was surrounded by a small regiment of agents and guards before he reached the front portico.

The Secret Service tells little about its methods. The money spent for protection of the president, the vice-president and their families is hidden in an overall sum that includes a much larger amount for chasing counterfeiters and other jobs. There are reportedly 58 agents permanently in the White House detail. At least twice as many are used when the Presi-

AS MANY as 1,000 threaten ing letters reach the White House every year, all of which are checked out from Secret Service field offices. Every rumor of a plot against the President's life is investigated. Many of the 600 people who show up at the White House gate demanding to see the President are questioned.

The potential threats almost invariably turn out to be the work of cranks. It is perhaps significant, however, that the number of threats Kennedy received each year was half again as many as came addressed to President Eisenhower.

The airplanes and helicopters used by the President are under constant military guard. Every auditorium where he is sched uled to speak is checked in ad vance to make sure there is no unprotected entrance or any hidden vantage points from which a gun could be fired.

FOR THE inaugural parades in Washington a remarkable opevery building along the route. Guards recruited from a dozen city police forces are stationed on almost every floor. Others mingled with the crowds.

For an open-air parade, in a distant city, however, an army would be required to police every possible cranny where an assassin might hide. The Secret Service has long known that a parade is the real weakness in their defense.

The image of the popular, fearless president is so ingrained in the American tradition however, that Presidents have always felt obliged to ignore police was at least partially - the Secret shown in 1950 when two Puerto Service warnings.

Bob Kennon is presently retired from State Service and is receiving $298.14 per month for the remainder of his life with the State reserving $61,952.00 in escrow to be sure he gets his retirement pay. He retired September 1962 listing the Department of Public Welfare as his last place of employment, where he received $625.00 per month.

He did not become a member of the Retirement System until his election as Governor in 1952. He has contributed to the system only $4,456.50 which was made while Governor and Welfare Department appointed attorney under Jimmie Davis.

The State's retirement system on Kennon was based on his life expectancy and it is estimated by actuaries that it will cost the state $61,952.00!! KENNON ONLY CONTRIBUTED $4,456.50'! This con be confirmed by the Secretary of the State Employees Retirement System.

Sherwood Loe, a former charman of the Louisiana Highway Beard, received "over-rides" in royalities on a lease involving 6,500 acres of state-owned land housing Caddo lake in the portions part beneath Caddo lake in the northern part of Caddo parish.

Kennen, in a prepared statement, denied that any conflict of interest was possible, and said that he had made so little from the transaction that he was willing to sell his part for $100.

He said, in part, that "maybe the title of a Shakespearean tale is appro-priate to this political story. Could it all be 'Much Ado About Nothing'?"

We do not feel inclined to dispose of the matter as flippantly as candidate Kennon, We think there are graver is-sues at stake, issues which seriously compromise Kennen's qualifications as a gubernatorial candidate.

A great deal of interest has devel-ed in the revelation that ex-governor bert Kennon, who is once more a governors have grown rich on state pa-

There are minor questions involved in the matter which also need answers. The royalty in question was originally assigned to Kennon's sister, who reside in New Mexico. A month later, she turned the royalty over to Kennon

This transaction took place in 1955 when Kennon was governor. Yet it was not recorded in the Caddo parish clerk of court's office until 1957, when Kennon had left office. Why? Records in the clerk of court's of fice, we are told, mention no reimburs

TWO OF the plus marks which made things so much easier for Louisiana Tech's football team this fall were the kicking of David Lee (left) and the passing of Billy Laird. Lee, a junior from Minden, kept opponents bottled up, averaging 41.6 yards per boot on 44 kicks. Laird, just a sophomore, broke Tech records for the most passes thrown, most completed and most yardage. The Woodlawn ace completed 90 of 157 for 1103 yards to shatter the standards held by Mickey Slaughter who is now a quarterback with the Denver Broncos.

THE YOUNG MEN OF LOUISIANA are interested in maintaining our traditional way of life, in sound economical government, in states' rights and in home rule. Your record in these areas concern and alarm us!

YOUR RECORD ON ECONOMY IN GOVERNMENT

You have claimed that you "fattened the treasury" when you were governor. The records show otherwise. When you began your term, Mr. Kennon, the surplus left by Earl Long was $61,191,740.00. When you left office the surplus was $61,627,763.00. In other words, you spent everything the state received in tax income, oil royalties, and borrowed bond money! Your administration borrowed on bonds totaling $83,859,000.00* and your administration received $282,406,797.00 in oil royalties, leases and bonuses—an all time record. Mr. Kennon, you spent all of this additional money and did not fatten the treasury, as you claim. We must have a governor in Louisiana who will practice old-fashioned economy.

*This does not include bonds issued during your administration for veterans' bonuses, ports, Mississippi River Bridge or the Greater New Orleans Expressway totaling $190,000,000.00.

YOUR RECORD ON CIVIL RIGHTS

It appears to us that you jumped "from the frying pan into the fire" when you supported the Republican Party. It was your candidate, Mr. Kennon, that invaded the South and sent troops into Little Rock. It was your candidate, Mr. Kennon, that named Earl Warren, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and caused a chaotic situation in the South. We don't want an ineffective party-jumper—we want someone who will work to unite the South and through this united strength fight effectively for our rights!!

YOUR RECORD ON HOME RULE

You have talked a great deal about "states' rights" but your administration, Mr. Kennon, did not respect "parish rights" or "municipal rights" and you did great damage to home rule. "States' rights" and "home rule" are based on the same philosophy. Are you fish or fowl? We need a governor who will fight for states' rights and respect the rights of our parishes and municipalities in a like manner.

WE NEED A CHANGE IN STATE GOVERNMENT

Young Men of Louisiana are interested in the Campaign for Governor because we are the age group that will be most affected by the next four years. Mr. Kennon, your record as governor indicates a lack of concern for the state's future financial stability and your federal politics indicates personal interest rather than state's interest.

Contrast this with the strong fight AGAINST the proposed civil rights program being waged by Gillis Long. Mr. Long is ACTING, NOT JUST TALKING. The Young men of Louisiana are impressed by the sincere, logical approach Gillis has taken in respect to reducing state spending-re-evaluating your tax structure to make Louisiana industrially competitive with Mississippi, Texas and Arkansas retraining of Louisiana workers to meet the demands of modern industry — upgrading our colleges and universities to meet the challenge of the space age - a strong civil service for the protection of state employees - effective home rule. Gillis Long is a man of action, dedication and determination!

were hosts for the rehearsal dinner honoring their son and his fiancee Thursday evening at the Holiday Room of the Holiday Inn.

The U-shaped dinner table was overlaid with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink chrysanthemums and greenery. Tall pink tapers in crystal holders surrounded with pink net ruffles and small pink blossoms and greenery were placed at intervals down a pink satin runner which extended the length of the tables.
Miniature glittered ruffles of pink net and tiny pink satin bows decorated the placed cards which marked the seating for the guests.

For the occasion the honoree wore a cranberry wool sheath with matching accessories. Mrs. Fletcher wore a pink sheath and Mrs. Parker, mother of the bride, was attired in grey wool. The bridal couple chose this time to present gifts to their attendants.

Invited guests were the hon-orees and Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Dr. and Mrs. Clifton R. Tennison, Miss Fleta Davis, Ron-croup may be so mild, the parents scarcely are aware that the child is ill during the day. He may have nothing more than a slight nasal discharge or huskiness of the voice. But the situation changes at night. After the youngster falls asleep, he awakens with a terrific bout of coughing, which has a characteristic barking, brassy, hollow sound.

It is a frightening experience for the parents, especially when the little one is found sitting up in bed, grasping the throat, and struggling for breath. These spells are as typical of croup as the whoop is of whooping cough.

The sharp, rasping sounds come from air as it passes through the obstructed laryax. The noise produced may be so loud it can be heard at a distance. During the paraxysm, the face becomes red, the lips blue, and the veins in the forehead distended. Between breaths, the

Latin America May Be 'Hot Spot' For Johnson

American events indicate that guing Latin America:

leaders pondering the repercus-sions of President John F. Kennedy's death, Latin America is in growing turmoil.

Venezuela's government for-mally accused Cuba of smugding arms into Venezuela for a Communist campaign of terror. Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt has called for "joint definite'' action against Fidel Castro's Communist regime in Venezuelan Communists had hoped, so far in vain, their campaign would cause the army to oust Betancourt, solidifying antimilitarist opposition behind them, for a Red takeover of the oil-rich country.

Venezuela's charge against Cuba was based on a three-ton cache of arms found buried on beach in the state of Falcon where major oil refineries are located.

The U.S. State Department said, "The evidence presented demonstrates that the Castro regime is fomenting violence in other American republics not only with subversive propaganfunds and trained agents, but also with weapons and ammunition.' Johnson's concern for Latin America was clearly expressed Tuesday when he called to the White House all the Latin American officials who came to at-

Castroism Moves South

While the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is in the limelight in the United States because Lee Harvey Oswald's connection with it in Dallas, Castro terrorists are in action in Venezuela.

A uniformed deputy chief of the U.S. military mission in Caracas was kidnaped by four heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists near his home this week. Colonel James K. Chenault of Sherman, Texas was the victim. His captors later called the U.S. Embassy switchboard and said Colonel Chenault would not be harmed.

"We only want him for progaganda purposes," the anonymous caller said.

There was a time when such an assault on an American officer while he was in uniform and on duty would have been considered a serious international incident. Apparently, that is not the case these days. There seems to be a tendency to shrug off happenings which bear directly or indirectly on our nation's defense and posture among nations.

The wave of communist terrorism in Venezuela is not new. It has been in progress for at least a year and a half — since the Venezuelan government outlawed the Communist Party.

Many months ago, the leader of that Latin American country's Reds, Gustavo Machado, told an American reporter:

"When all legal roads are closed, then we will resort to full vio-

It appears now that this was no idle boast. Caracas has been experiencing what amounts to a brush-fire war. For months, the Reds have raided industries mainly those financed by North American capital — and harassed the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

· A presidential election is scheduled in Venezuela for December 1, and the outbreak of violence is part of a communist-led effort to disrupt law and order as a plan to disrupt the election.

Why should Venezuela be chosen completely new.

for such a target? It is one of the wealthiest countries in Latin America. Communism is supposed to work best where there is the lowest ebb of poverty and unemploy-

This is a false assumption. Following World War II, the Soviet government did not seize the poorest nations in Europe, but headed for the industrial areas in East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Now, the communists want a springboard in Latin America. Fidel Castro's revolution in Cuba furnished a good base of operations. But the movement needs more developed industry. So through Castro's cooperation, the Reds are trying to expand their New World beachhead.

Fidelismo is pro - Castroism, which is another name for communism among Latin Americans. The Castro wing in Venezuela the same group which kidnaped Colonel Chenault — is led by men trained in Cuba or Moscow. It is financed, supported, trained and supplied with arms from Cuba.

Thus is Venezuela a Castro target because it is within easy reach of Cuba across the Caribbean. It is rich in oil, which the communists want for their new position in world trade. Its falling to Castro under the very eyes of the United States would serve as an example to the remaining nations of Latin America.

It is unfortunate that President Betancourt himself is a former leftwinger and a relatively ineffective opponent of Soviet aggre-

Venezuelan communists and those exported from Cuba have not found it too difficult to infiltrate student movements, labor unions, the press and other areas of government and business.

There is street fighting and kidnapping in Venezuela now. Tomorrow there might be just such steps as those which brought Castro to Cuba and the Soviet missile installations in 1962. The United States cannot say this is something

Oil And 'Outflow'

The balance of payments problem is one of the most series this country faces. It results from the fact that the outflow of money from this to other nations has been much greater than the inflow from them to us. The major consequence, and it is an exceedingly grave one, has been erosion of the gold supply which backs our cur-

At the same time, some enterprises, operating internationally, highly valuable elements in preventing the problem from becoming worse. Oil is one. A survey has been made of the foreign activities of some 200 U.S. companies engaged in international oil operations. These produced a net inflow to the United States of more than $638 million in 1962.

This was not an isolated instance. There was a net payments surplus in each of the last five years, and the trend has been upward.

Moreover, the survey finds, the favorable balances seem likely to continue and increase. Free world petroleum demand, outside the U. S., has risen dramatically nearly 50 per cent in that same five year period. Continuation of the trend is confidently expected. The U.S. oil industry will be a major participant in the growth.

Oil makes enormous contributions to the economic life of the nation, our standards of living and our military security. Now we see it is a force which strongly supports our international financial position. This, in a chaotic world, is of the utmost consequence.

Taking It Straight

There is one more law that might well be adopted by the United States and by the various states of the union. It might be wise to enact a law forbidding the passage of any foolish law.

Take one law in New Jersey, for instance. The alcoholic beverage control law of that state prohibits bar rooms from selling chewing gum, life savers, digestive aids and breath-sweeteners.

This seems to mean that if anyone in New Jersey wants to go into a bar and take a drink, he must abide by the consequences, without any opportunity at mitigation.

A man can't even ease his stomach, his conscience or his breath. He can't fool his friends or his wife into thinking he has not been drinking — not that he'd be likely to fool them long anyhow.

Now we must ask what good this law really does - and, if it doesn't do any good, why have it? Congress has decreed that medicine must be proved beneficial before it can be used. Now, maybe it should be required to prove laws will be beneficial before they can be enacted.

King Tutankhamun of ancient Egypt fervently desired to live forever, yet he died at about 20. His famous tomb was lavishly equipped with possessions for him to enjoy in afterlife.

Congressman Sent Letter Warning Of Red Killers

WASHINGTON — It was a dum-dum bullet that shattered the head and life of President F. Kennedy.

That's what the Dallas doctors who attended him have told

They stated the dum-dum bullet fragmented when it hit the President, shattering a portion of his head and neck. Dallas police, who have confirmed this medical finding to the FBI, have matched bullet fragments removed from the President and the car he was riding in with the spent shells found in the warehouse.

THESE SHELLS definitely were fired from the rifle the suspected assassin bought from a mail order company.

Representative Edwin Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has sent veteran investigators to Dallas to dig into Lee Oswald's leftist background and trips to Russia and Mexico.

Fifteen days before he was shot down, President Kennedy was warned that assassins were being trained in Russia to commit murders in the U.S. and England.

This warning was voiced in a letter Representative Charles Kirsten, R., Milwaukee, sent to the late President and his brothers, Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Senator Edward Kennedy, Mass, Kirsten knew the President for many years, having served with him on the House Labor Committee.

THE WISCONSIN legislator never received a reply to his warning from any of the Ken-

The burden of Kirsten's letter was an effort to obtain administration help in focusing public attention on the assassination of Stepan Bandera, the Ukranian underground leader, by Communist agents. In urging this, Kirsten wrote:

"THE SENATE Internal Security subcommittee has been contemplating a hearing of the killing in Munich of the Ukrainian underground leader. Stephen Bandera, by the former Soviet agent Bogden Stashynsky. It was a bizarre assassination illustrating the subversive operations of the Soviet police in the free world. Apparently the State Department is trying to prevent the hearing. "Stashynsky and his wife es-

Union President Hits Automation

Meany of the AFL-CIO warns that automation is a "curse" that could bring the United States to "a national catastrophe," he sounds like the Luddites who attempted to break the machines which ushered in the Industrial Revolution, Or. perhaps, like the theoretician of error, Karl Marx, who was convinced that industrialization under capitalism would bring endless and increasing misery to the working class - the "proletariat" to him.

Both Marx and those who tried to stop the course of industrial progress were, wrong. The machine, which seemed certain to put millions out of work and debase humanity, instead ushered in an era in which the living standards of white collar and blue collar workers have risen steadily and in which the gap between the high-income and low-income groups has steadily closed.

AUTOMATION, a word but fifteen years old according to the sociologists, has now replaced the bugaboo of mechanization. The word, however, means different things to different people — and the best economists in the AFL - CIO (when they are not talking for publication) will admit that many of the fears expressed at negotiating sessions are ground-

Why then is Mr. Meany attempting to turn back the clock? History and experience have shown that increased mechanization — and that, basically, is what automation consists of today - does not depress the economy, but on the contrary stimulates it. The many machines being used which "automate" office work, for example, have added to employment. With few exceptions, moreover, the authorities agree that whatever dislocation may be caused by automation, it is temporary. Men are put out of one kind of work, but they are usually reabsorbed by the labor force. Only in such industries as coal mining, where the miners for the most part refuse to leave the towns which fringe the coal fields, is there persistent unemployment. And this is caused more by the decline of coal as a major fuel than by automa-

When President George fect of the economy but the immediate effect on their unions. As the nation automates, the nature of the labor force changes drastically. White collar workers, hard to unionize, become the dominant unit. The blue collarworker, still the backbone of present-day unions, is edged out. The unskilled find it hard to find jobs.

As a result, the trade unions are shrinking in membership and, perhaps more fearsome to the labor leader, losing their political hold. It will .take some time before the politicians come to realize this. There is always a lag in political thinking. But when they do, it will be a bad blow to the AFL-CIO and to all organized labor.

The effect of automation is really not an economic one but a social one. An automating society puts high value on skills that come with education. Eventually, it will create a middle class "proletariat." which will find itself resistant to the appeal of the union organizer.

THIS SHIFT in the nature of employment comes at a time when labor is beset by another problem: the shift from production to service. By that I mean the steady decline of production workers as compared to those in service industries. For the labor leaders, this means another loss in membership. It is the production unions which filled the trade union ranks. The service industries are being invaded by James Hoffa of the Teamsters, but with no real success. In time, the unions may find ways and means to apply a compulsoryunion principle to service industries, but so far the formula has not been found.

Mr. Meany's panic can be understood. But those who write his speeches know that in an economic sense automation is boon, moving ahead toward days of less and less physical drudgery or mental monotony for those who produce the nation's goods. It is also our answer to the growing threat of foreign competition in the world market.

NOTHING Mr. Meany can say or do will halt the advance of automation. He can stand like King Canute, but the tide will not recede at his command. What labor should be doing at this time is to put its best minds to work so that the transition will be as painless and rapid as possible.

Tight Security Stifles Johnson

WASHINGTON - The U. S. Secret Service has moved swiftly to tighten its protective screen around the President a move that will run against the grain of Lyndon B. John-

Even more than President Kennedy, Mr. Johnson has practiced the brand of politics that thrives on shaking the hands of mobs of strangers and and waving to throngs that line the routes of parades.

At Secret Service insistence, there will be far less of this public exposure for President Johnson. As the Secret Service has known for years, is is almost defenseless against the kind of tortured, solitary assassin that has taken the lives of four Presidents and almost killed another before he took

THIS TYPE of man is usually the one with a vague grudge no different from thousands of other misfits. There is nothing to indicate the grudge will suddenly crystallize into a drive to kill a chief of state - usually with no thought of escaping punishment.

Such was Leon F. Czolgosz who had harbored anarchistic views much as other members of a small fringe group. Then in 1901 he joined a line of people waiting to shake the hand of President McKinley in Buffalo and shot him at pointblank range. Czolgosz had no chance to escape. The Secret Service had warned McKinley of the danger he faced in his frequent hand-shaking sessions, but the President ignored the

There was nothing in the background of Charles Guiteau, except for the refusal of President Garfield to give him a patronage job, to foreshadow Guiteau's fatal shooting of Garfield in the Washington railroad station in 1881.

Giuseppe Zangara was merea discontented bricklayer when he suddenly appeared at political rally in Miami in 1933 and fired at Presidentelect Franklin D. Roosevelt, hitting Chicago Mayor Anton Cermak instead

The assassination of Abraham Lincoln would never have occurred if there had been a semblence of the type of protection now provided a president when he attends a theater performance or any other public occasion. As an actor, John Wilkes Booth might have reached the presidential box and been able to pull a gun. Unlike the other assassins, however, there is good reason to believe Booth was not indifferent to the consequences. He had carefully planned his escape and with luck might never have been apprehended.

The effectiveness — and bravery — of the Secret Service and the White House police was shown in 1950 when two Puerto Rican nationalists staged hopeless, useless attack on Blair House, the temporary residence of President Truman. They killed one policeman and wounded two others but inevitable were shot down. One died and the other sentenced to life imprisonment after recovering from gunshot wounds.

THE WHITE House is about as well guarded as such an establishment can be without a 60-foot wall around it. The guards are unobtrusive but numerous. When a North Carolina truck driver managed to break through the front gate of recently he was surrounded by a small regiment of agents and guards before he reached the front portico.

The Secret Service tells little about its methods. The money spent for protection of the president, the vice-president and their families is hidden in an overall sum that includes a much larger amount for chasing counterfeiters and other jobs. There are reportedly 58 agents permanently in the White House detail. At least twice as many are used when the President travels.

AS MANY as 1,000 threatening letters reach the White House every year, all of which are checked out from Secret Service field offices. Every rumor of a plot against the Presi dent's life is investigated. Many of the 600 people who show up at the White House gate de manding to see the President are questioned.

The potential threats almost invariably turn out to be the work of cranks. It is perhaps significant, however, that the number of threats Kennedy received each year was half again as many as came addressed to President Eisenhower.

The airplanes and helicopters used by the President are under constant military guard. Every auditorium where he is scheduled to speak is checked in advance to make sure there is no unprotected entrance or any hidden vantage points from which a gun could be fired.

FOR THE inaugural parades in Washington a remarkable operation is carried out to inspect every building along the route. Guards recruited from a dozen city police forces are stationed on almost every floor. Others mingled with the crowds. For an open-air parade, in a distant city, however, an army would be required to police every possible cranny where an assassin might hide. The Secret Service has long known that a parade is the real weakness in their defense.

The image of the popular, fearless president is so ingrained in the American tradition however, that Presidents have always felt obliged to ignore -at least partially - the Secret Service warnings.

Occasional Cigar Not Ruled Out

My question: Will an occasional cigar or cocktail at several weeks interval have any ill effects on my health and life span? - Mr. B.

Comment: I can't say yes; I can't say no. The only way you will ever find out is by giving it a try. Do I recommend it? Frankly, yes. That is the theme of my recently published book, "Your Life to Enjoy."

WE ONLY live once. Each of us should be allowed the choice, so long as we do not go into it blindly. Smoking an occasional cigar and taking a highball might kick up the ulcer in a dozen other similar patients but not in you. You can't tell until you try.

Besides, you are over 70. You owe it to yourself to partake of these enjoyments. I believe that people who have fulfilled the promise of the Bible, 70 years, should not have to answer to the same rules and health regulations as younger persons. They have already proved themselves. They have overcome potential infections, accidents, illnesses. stresses; enough to live long.

Why suddenly say, "Better not have that cigar; lung cancer, you know. And better not have that highball; cirrhosis of the liver, you know.

IF YOUR dieting has helped your ulcer, Mr. B., by all means continue with it. Take up the challenge and leap into the tobacco and alcohol pool. (Although an occasional cigar and highball is more of a small puddle than a deep pool.) You may find that your old ulcer behaves as well as before.

In Victorian and Edwardian days, of course, British women muffled themselves in many petticoats, whalebone corsets, corset covers, busites and other flesh warming gadgets.

Nowadays, despite chill and wet climate, they must be some of the most undressed women in the world, with toeless shoes, thin stockings, skirts above the knees and underwear no bigger or thicker than a handkerchief.

Additionally, many go out freezing English evening in low decolletage exposing their chests to the chilling winds.

Yet, as Tailor and Cutter points out, statistics still show that British women live longer and suffer from fewer diseases than their muffled husbands.

FURNITURE SALE

(MONEY-SAVER STYLE)

Please drive slowly during this holiday rush, & to J. Adams Furniture sale. A lot of people have been waiting for us to have another sale and we are concerned about traffic at this time of year. This sale is now in progress and the markdowns are tremendous . . . However, J. Adams doesn't want to cause any more accidents. There are too many now. People will be coming from Bastrop, Crossett, Rayville, Oak Grove, Winnsboro, Ruston, Delhi, Sterlington, Farmerville, maybe even from Angola, if they can get away. Don't feel that you have to beat them all, because there is plenty for everybody. If you can't take it easy and drive carefully, we just might stop having sales at J. Adams! How would you like that? So far we haven't mentioned what is going to be on sale and maybe we should. We would dislike to have a bunch of men come in after suits and take the place apart because we don't have men's suits on sale. Fact of the matter is, we don't even carry men's suits. We don't carry a lot of other things either, like baby food, footballs, paper clips, toothpaste with fluoride, ear muffs, so if you want any of these things, don't come to J. Adams. As a matter of fact there will be only one thing on sale, furniture, nothing but furniture, the prettiest furniture at the best prices. Ideal to make your

Castroism Moves South

While the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is in the limelight in the United States because Lee Harvey Oswald's connection with it in Dallas, Castro terrorists are in action in Venezuela.

A uniformed deputy chief of the U.S. military mission in Caracas was kidnaped by four heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists near his home this week. Colonel James K. Chenault of Sherman, Texas was the victim. His captors later called the U.S. Embassy switchboard and said Colonel Chenault would not be harmed.

"We only want him for progaganda purposes," the anonymous caller said.

There was a time when such an assault on an American officer while he was in uniform and on duty would have been considered a serious international incident. Apparently, that is not the case these days. There seems to be a tendency to shrug off happenings which bear directly or indirectly on our nation's defense and posture among nations.

The wave of communist terrorism in Venezuela is not new. It has been in progress for at least a year and a half — since the Venezuelan government outlawed the Communist Party.

Many months ago, the leader of that Latin American country's Reds, Gustavo Machado, told an American reporter:

"When all legal roads are closed, then we will resort to full vio-

It appears now that this was no idle boast. Caracas has been experiencing what amounts to a brush-fire war. For months, the Reds have raided industries mainly those financed by North American capital — and harassed the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

A presidential election is scheduled in Venezuela for December 1, and the outbreak of violence is part of a communist-led effort to disrupt law and order as a plan to disrupt the election.

Why should Venezuela be chosen

for such a target? It is one of the wealthiest countries in Latin America. Communism is supposed to work best where there is the lowest ebb of poverty and unemploy-

This is a false assumption. Following World War II, the Soviet government did not seize the poorest nations in Europe, but headed for the industrial areas in East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Now, the communists want a springboard in Latin America. Fidel Castro's revolution in Cuba furnished a good base of operations. But the movement needs more developed industry. So through Castro's cooperation, the Reds are trying to expand their New World beachhead.

Fidelismo is pro - Castroism. which is another name for communism among Latin Americans. The Castro wing in Venezuela the same group which kidnaped Colonel Chenault — is led by men trained in Cuba or Moscow. It is financed, supported, trained and supplied with arms from Cuba.

Thus is Venezuela a Castro target because it is within easy reach of Cuba across the Caribbean. It is rich in oil, which the communists want for their new position in world trade. Its falling to Castro under the very eyes of the United States would serve as an example to the remaining nations of Latin

It is unfortunate that President Betancourt himself is a former leftwinger and a relatively ineffective opponent of Soviet aggre-

Venezuelan communists and those exported from Cuba have not found it too difficult to infiltrate student movements, labor unions, the press and other areas of government and business.

There is street fighting and kidnapping in Venezuela now. Tomorrow there might be just such steps as those which brought Castro to Cuba and the Soviet missile installations in 1962. The United States cannot say this is something completely new.

Oil And 'Outflow'

The balance of payments problem is one of the most series this country faces. It results from the fact that the outflow of money from this to other nations has been much greater than the inflow from them to us. The major consequence, and it is an exceedingly grave one, has been erosion of the gold supply which backs our cur-

At the same time, some enterprises, operating internationally, highly valuable elements in preventing the problem from becoming worse. Oil is one. A survey has been made of the foreign activities of some 200 U.S. companies engaged in international oil operations. These produced a net inflow to the United States of more than $638 million in 1962.

This was not an isolated instance. There was a net payments surplus in each of the last five years, and the trend has been upward.

Moreover, the survey finds, the favorable balances seem likely to continue and increase. Free world petroleum demand, outside the U. S., has risen dramatically nearly 50 per cent in that same five year period. Continuation of the trend is confidently expected. The U.S. oil industry will be a major participant in the growth.

Oil makes enormous contributions to the economic life of the nation, our standards of living and our military security. Now we see it is a force which strongly supports our international financial position. This, in a chaotic world, is of the utmost consequence.

Taking It Straight

There is one more law that might well be adopted by the United States and by the various states of the union. It might be wise to enact a law forbidding the passage of any foolish law.

Take one law in New Jersey, for instance. The alcoholic beverage control law of that state prohibits bar rooms from selling chewing gum, life savers, digestive aids and breath-sweeteners.

This seems to mean that if anyone in New Jersey wants to go into a bar and take a drink, he must abide by the consequences, without any opportunity at mitigation.

A man can't even ease his stomach, his conscience or his breath. He can't fool his friends or his wife into thinking he has not been drinking - not that he'd be likely to fool them long anyhow.

Now we must ask what good this law really does — and, if it doesn't do any good, why have it? Congress has decreed that medicine must be proved beneficial before it can be used. Now, maybe it should be required to prove laws will be beneficial before they can be enacted.

King Tutankhamun of ancient Egypt fervently desired to live forever, yet he died at about 20. His famous tomb was lavishly equipped with possessions for him to enjoy in afterlife.

Congressman Sent Letter Warning Of Red Killers

WASHINGTON — It was a dum-dum bullet that shattered the head and life of President F. Kennedy.

That's what the Dallas docfors who attended him have told

They stated the dum-dum bullet fragmented when it hit the President, shattering a portion of his head and neck.

Dallas police, who have confirmed this medical finding to the FBI, have matched bullet fragments removed from the President and the car he was riding in with the spent shells found in the warehouse.

THESE SHELLS definitely were fired from the rifle the suspected assassin bought from a mail order company.

Representative Edwin Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has sent veteran investigators to Dallas to dig into Lee Oswald's leftist background and trips to Russia and Mexico.

Fifteen days before he was shot down, President Kennedy was warned that assassins were being trained in Russia to commit murders in the U.S. and England.

This warning was voiced in a letter Representative Charles Kirsten, R., Milwaukee, sent to the late President and his brothers, Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Senator Edward Kennedy, Mass. Kirsten knew the President for many years, having served with him on the House Labor Committee.

THE WISCONSIN legislator never received a reply to his warning from any of the Ken-

The burden of Kirsten's letter was an effort to obtain administration help in focusing public attention on the assassination of Stepan Bandera, the Ukranian underground leader, by Communist agents. In urging this, Kirsten wrote:

"THE SENATE Internal Security subcommittee has been contemplating a hearing of the killing in Munich of the Ukrainian underground leader. #### Union President Hits Automation

When President George Meany of the AFL-CIO warns that automation is a "curse" that could bring the United States to "a national catastrophe," he sounds like the Luddites who attempted to break the machines which ushered in the Industrial Revolution. Or, perhaps, like the theoretician of error, Karl Marx, who was con inced that industrialization under capitalism would bring endless and increasing misery to the working class - the "proletariat" to him.

Both Marx and those who tried to stop the course of industrial progress were, wrong. The machine, which seemed certain to put millions out of work and debase humanity, instead ushered in an era in which the living standards of white collar and blue collar workers have risen steadily and in which the gap between the high-income and low-income groups has steadily closed.

AUTOMATION, a word but fifteen years old according to the sociologists, has now replaced the bugaboo of mechanization. The word, however, means different things to different people — and the best economists in the AFL - CIO (when they are not talking for publication) will admit that many of the fears expressed at negotiating sessions are ground-

Why then is Mr. Meany attempting to turn back the clock? History and experience have shown that increased mechanization — and that, basically, is what automation consists of today - does not depress the economy, but on the contrary stimulates it. The many machines being used which "automate" office work, for example, have added to employment.

With few exceptions, moreover, the authorities agree that whatever dislocation may be caused by automation, it is temporary. Men are put out of one kind of work, but they are usually reabsorbed by the labor force. Only in such industries as coal mining, where the miners for NOTHING Mr. Meany can the most part refuse to leave the towns which fringe the coal fields, is there persistent unemployment. And this is caused more by the decline of coal as mediate effect on their unions. As the nation automates, the nature of the labor force changes drastically. White collar workers, hard to unionize, become the dominant unit. The blue collarworker, still the backbone of present-day unions, is edged out. The unskilled find it hard

As a result, the trade unions are shrinking in membership and, perhaps more fearsome to the labor leader, losing their political hold. It will .take some time before the politicians come to realize this. There is always a lag in political thinking. But when they do, it will be a bad blow to the AFL-CIO and to all organized labor.

The effect of automation is really not an economic one but a social one. An automating society puts high value on skills that come with education. Eventually, it will create a middle "proletariat." which will find itself resistant to the appeal of the union organizer.

THIS SHIFT in the nature of employment comes at a time when labor is beset by another problem: the shift from production to service. By that I mean the steady decline of production workers as compared to those in service industries. For the labor leaders, this means another loss in membership. It is the production unions which filled the trade union ranks. The service industries are being invaded by James Hoffa of the Teamsters, but with no real success. In time, the unions may find ways and means to apply a compulsoryunion principle to service industries, but so far the formula has not been found.

Mr. Meany's panic can be understood. But those who write his speeches know that in an economic sense automation is a boon, moving ahead toward days of less and less physical drudgery or mental monotony for those who produce the nation's goods. It is also our answer to the growing threat of foreign competition in the world say or do will halt the advance of automation. He can stand like King Canute, but the tide will not recede at his command. What labor should be doing at this time is to put its best minds to work so that the transition will be as painless and rapid as

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Secret Service has moved swiftly to tighten its protective screen around the President a move that will run against the grain of Lyndon B. John-

Even more than President Kennedy, Mr. Johnson has practiced the brand of politics that thrives on shaking the hands of mobs of strangers and and waving to throngs that line the routes of parades.

At Secret Service insistence, there will be far less of this public exposure for President Johnson. As the Secret Service has known for years, is is almost defenseless against the kind of tortured, solitary assassin that has taken the lives of four Presidents and almost killed another before he took

THIS TYPE of man is usually the one with a vague grudge no different from thousands of other misfits. There is nothing to indicate the grudge will suddenly crystallize into a drive to kill a chief of state — usually with no thought of escaping punishment.

Such was Leon F. Czolgosz who had harbored anarchistic views much as other members of a small fringe group. Then in 1901 he joined a line of people waiting to shake the hand of President McKinley in Buffalo and shot him at pointblank range. Czolgosz had no chance to escape. The Secret Service had warned McKinley of the danger he faced in his frequent hand-shaking sessions, but the President ignored the warnings.

There was nothing in the background of Charles Guiteau, except for the refusal of President Garfield to give him a patronage job, to foreshadow Guiteau's fatal shooting of Garfield in the Washington railroad station in 1881.

Giuseppe Zangara was merely a discontented bricklayer when he suddenly appeared at a political rally in Miami in 1933 and fired at Presidentelect Franklin D. Roosevelt, hitting Chicago Mayor Anton Cermak instead.

The assassination of Abraham Lincoln would never have occurred if there had been a semblence of the type of protection now provided a president when he attends a theater performance or any other public occasion. As an actor, John Wilkes Booth might have reached the presidential box and been able to pull a gun. Unlike the other assassins, however, there is good reason to believe Booth was not indifferent to the consequences. He had carefully planned his escape and with luck might never have been apprehended.

The effectiveness - and bravery - of the Secret Service and the White House police was shown in 1950 when two Puerto Service warnings.

Rican nationalists staged a hopeless, useless attack on Blair House, the temporary re sidence of President Truman They killed one policeman and wounded two others but inevit able were shot down. One died and the other sentenced to life imprisonment after recovering from gunshot wounds.

THE WHITE House is about as well guarded as such an es tablishment can be without a 60-foot wall around it. The guards are unobtrusive but numerous. When a North Carolina truck driver managed to break through the front gate of recently he was surrounded by a small regiment of agents and guards before he reached the front portico.

The Secret Service tells little about its methods. The money spent for protection of the pres ident, the vice-president and their families is hidden in an overall sum that includes a much larger amount for chasing counterfeiters and other jobs. There are reportedly 58 agents permanently in the White House detail. At least twice as many are used when the President travels.

AS MANY as 1,000 threatening letters reach the White House every year, all of which are checked out from Secret Service field offices. Every rumor of a plot against the President's life is investigated. Many of the 600 people who show up at the White House gate demanding to see the President are questioned.

The potential threats almost invariably turn out to be the work of cranks. It is perhaps significant, however, that the number of threats Kennedy received each year was half again as many as came addressed to President Eisenhower.

The airplanes and helicopters used by the President are under constant military guard. Every auditorium where he is scheduled to speak is checked in advance to make sure there is no unprotected entrance or any hidden vantage points from which a gun could be fired.

FOR THE inaugural parades in Washington a remarkable operation is carried out to inspect every building along the route Guards recruited from a dozen city police forces are stationed on almost every floor. Others mingled with the crowds.

For an open-air parade, in a distant city, however, an army would be required to police every possible cranny where an assassin might hide. The Secret Service has long known that a parade is the real weakness in their defense.

The image of the popular, fearless president is so ingrained in the American tradition however, that Presidents have always felt obliged to ignore --at least partially - the Secret

My question: Will an occasional eigar or cocktail at several weeks interval have any ill effects on my health and life span? - Mr. B.

Comment: I can't say yes; I can't say no. The only way you will ever find out is by giving it a try. Do I recommend it? Frankly, yes. That is the theme of my recently published book, "Your Life to Enjoy."

us should be allowed the choice, so long as we do not go into it blindly. Smoking an occasional cigar and taking a highball might kick up the ulcer in a dozen other similar patients but not in you. You can't tell until you try. Besides, you are over 70. You

I believe that people who have fulfilled the promise of the Bible, 70 years, should not have to answer to the same rules and health regulations as younger persons. They have already proved themselves. They have overcome potential infections, accidents, illstresses: sufficient enough to live long.

Why suddenly say, "Better not have that cigar; lung cancer, you know. And better not have that highball; cirrhosis of the liver, you know.'

IF YOUR dieting has helped your ulcer, Mr. B., by all means continue with it. Take up the challenge and leap into the tobacco and alcohol pool. (Although an occasional cigar and highball is more of a small puddle than a deep pool.) You may find that your old ulcer behaves as well as before.

MENTAL ILLNESS INHERITED?

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Is mental illness inherited? I am 25 years old. I have a wonderful husband and two healthy children. I wonder if you could ease my mind. My mother has doctors call involutional melancholia. Something to do with the menopause. (She's getting better with shock treatments.)

I HAVE this terrible fear that maybe I might have a breakdown too, because of inheritance. You can't imagine how anxiously I'm awaiting your answer. I'm like a student afraid to open the letter with his report card on year-end marks. Will you write? - Mrs. Z.

Comment: Here's the report, fast: you pass!

Now, doesn't that make you feel better all over? What your mother has had is a relatively rare complication of the menopause. As for yourself, I'm not being pollyannish when I say that you may sail through your change of life (quite a few years away!) without even knowing you're passing through it. No hot flashes, no nervousness, nor anything else. This condition is not hereditary. So just go along enjoying your healthy children and fine husband. Don't borrow sorrow. Too many do. #### Kennedy Signed Bill For Medals As Final Deed

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bill authorizing medals to commemorate the first union health cener in the United States was the last legslation signed by John F. Kemedy.

On Nov. 20, two days before assassination, Kennedy signed the bill for medals to commemorate the founding in 1914 by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union of the first union-operated health center in the United States. It was located in New York City.

The Senate had completed legislative action on the measure 13 days earlier and Kennedy's signature made it Public Law 88-185. It authorizes the production of silver medal and of bronze copies to be furnished the union at cost.

CREDITORS MEETING

NEW YORK-Creditors of Allied Crude Vegetable Oil and Refining Co. have set up a series of meeting to seek a cooperative approach to recovering funds lent to the bankrupt concern. More than 50 creditors met at the New York Produce Exchange at the request of Jacob Isbrandtsen, president of Isbrandtsen Co. It is understood that the creditors will seek to file a joint court action.

Thinly Clothed Females Stump British Tailors

LONDON (AP) - Tailor and Cutter - magazine arbiter of British male style - acknowledged the modern thinly clad female has it stumped.

The magazine's lead editorial said Friday:

"The weaker sex go through most of the year dressed in considerably less clothes than their male equivalents.

"Is their avoidance of bronchitis due to a basic hardihood unknown to men. or has half a century of thinned down garments merely produced a resistance to the cold via a kind of environmental mutuation?'

In Victorian and Edwardian days, of course, British women muffled themselves in many petticoats, whalebone corsets, corset covers, busites and other flesh warming gadgets.

Nowadays, despite the chill and wet climate, they must be some of the most undressed women in the world, with toeless shoes, thin stockings, skirts above the knees and underwear no bigger or thicker than a handkerchief.

Additionally, many go out in a freezing English evening in low decolletage exposing their chests to the chilling winds.

Yet, as Tailor and Cutter points out, statistics still show that British women live longer and suffer from fewer diseases than their muffled husbands.

FURNITURE SALE

(MONEY-SAVER STYLE)

Please drive slowly during this holiday rush, & to J. Adams Furniture sale. A lot of people have been waiting for us to have another sale and we are concerned about traffic at this time of year. This sale is now in progress and the markdowns are tremendous . . . However, J. Adams doesn't want to cause any more accidents. There are too many now. People will be coming from Bastrop, Crossett, Rayville, Oak Grove, Winnsboro, Ruston, Delhi, Sterlington, Farmerville, maybe even from Angola, if they can get away. Don't feel that you have to beat them all, because there is plenty for everybody. If you can't take it easy and drive carefully, we just might stop having sales at J. Adams! How would you like that? So far we haven't mentioned what is going to be on sale and maybe we should. We would dislike to have a bunch of men come in after suits and take the place apart because we don't have men's suits on sale. Fact of the matter is, we don't even carry men's suits. We don't carry a lot of other things either, like baby food, footballs, paper clips, toothpaste with fluoride, ear muffs, so if you want any of these things, don't come to J. Adams. As a matter of fact there will be only one thing on sale, furniture, nothing but furniture, the prettiest furniture at the best prices. Ideal to make your home merrier for Christmas!

BOB KENNON IS GETTING STATE RETIREMENT CHECKS

Bob Kennon is presently retired from State Service and is receiving $298.14 per month for the remainder of his life with the State reserving $61,952.00 in escrow to be sure he gets his retirement pay. He retired September, 1962 listing the Department of Public Welfare as his last place of employment, where he received $625.00 per month.

He did not become a member of the Retirement System until his election as Governor in 1952. He has contributed to the system only $4,456.50 which was made while Governor and Welfare Department appointed attorney under Jimmie Davis.

The State's retirement system on Kennon was based on his life expectancy and it is estimated by actuaries that it will cost the state $61,952.00!! KENNON ONLY CONTRIBUTED $4,456.50'! This con be confirmed by the Secretary of the State Employees Retirement System.

Kenron has admitted that he and Sherwood Loe, a former chairman of the Louisiana Highway Board, received "over-rides" in royalties on a lease in-volving 6,500 acres of state-owned land beneath Caddo lake in the northern part of Caddo parish.

Kennon, in a prepared statement, denied that any conflict of interest was possible, and said that he had made so little from the transaction that he was willing to sell his part for $100.

He said, in part, that "maybe the title of a Shakespearean tale is appropriate to this political story. Could it all be 'Much Ado About Nothing'?" We do not feel inclined to dispose

A great deal of interest has devel-d in the revelation that ex-governor appointed by governors and friends of governors have grown rich on state pa-tronage. Why excite more suspicion? There are minor questions involved in the matter which also need answers.

The royalty in question was originally assigned to Kennon's sister, who resides in New Mexico. A month later, she turned the royalty over to Kennon. This transaction took place in 1955, when Kennon was governor. Yet it was not recorded in the Caddo parish clerk of court's office until 1957, when Kennon had left office. Why? Records in the clerk of court's of-

MR. KENNON:

Your Record Is Alarming!

THE YOUNG MEN OF LOUISIANA are interested in maintaining our traditional way of life, in sound economical government, in states' rights and in home rule. Your record in these areas concern and alarm us!

YOUR RECORD ON ECONOMY IN GOVERNMENT

You have claimed that you "fattened the treasury" when you were governor. The records show otherwise. When you began your term, Mr. Kennon, the surplus left by Earl Long was $61,191,740.00. When you left office the surplus was $61,627,763.00. In other words, you spent everything the state received in tax income, oil royalties, and borrowed bond money! Your administration borrowed on bonds totaling $83,859,000.00* and your administration received $282,406,797.00 in oil royalties, leases and bonuses—an all time record. Mr. Kennon, you spent all of this additional money and did not fatten the treasury, as you claim. We must have a governor in Louisiana who will practice old-fashioned economy.

This does not include bonds issued during your administration for veterans' bonuses, ports, Mississippi River Bridge or the Greater New Orleans Expressway totaling $190,000,000.00.

YOUR RECORD ON CIVIL RIGHTS

It appears to us that you jumped "from the frying pan into the fire" when you supported the Republican Party. It was your candidate, Mr. Kennon, that invaded the South and sent troops into Little Rock. It was your candidate, Mr. Kennon, that named Earl Warren, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and caused a chaotic situation in the South. We don't want an ineffective party-jumper—we want someone who will work to unite the South and through this united strength fight effectively for our rights!!

YOUR RECORD ON HOME RULE

You have talked a great deal about "states' rights" but your administration, Mr. Kennon, did not respect "parish rights" or "municipal rights" and you did great damage to home rule. "States' rights" and "home rule" are based on the same philosophy. Are you fish or fowl? We need a governor who will fight for states' rights and respect the rights of our parishes and municipalities in a like manner.

WE NEED A CHANGE IN STATE GOVERNMENT

Young Men of Louisiana are interested in the Campaign for Governor because we are the age group that will be most affected by the next four years. Mr. Kennon, your record as governor indicates a lack of concern for the state's future financial stability and your federal politics indicates personal interest rather than state's interest.

Contrast this with the strong fight AGAINST the proposed civil rights program being waged by Gillis Long. Mr. Long is ACTING, NOT JUST TALKING. The Young men of Louisiana are impressed by the sincere, logical approach Gillis has taken in respect to reducing state spending-re-evaluating your tax structure to make Louisiana industrially competitive with Mississippi, Texas and Arkansas retraining of Louisiana workers to meet the demands of modern industry - upgrading our colleges and universities to meet the challenge of the space age — a strong civil service for the protection of state employees - effective home rule. Gillis Long is a man of action, dedication and determination!

-10, 6 and 3. In 11 years, Sgt. Pic has seen Oswald only once, the Air Force quoted Pic as saying. The sergeant informed military authorities of the family tie immediately on hearing that Oswald had been arrested, the Air Force statement said. The hospital commander, Brig. Gen. J. W. Humphryes Jr., said: "It is my understanding that appropriate federal agencies have investigated Sgt.

Pic and it appears that he is cleared of any possible connection with Friday's crime." Through the public information office at the hospital, Sgt. Pic said: "I will make no state-

Ban Defying Reporter Dies Of Injuries

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Edward Kennedy, central figure in an historic controversy involving the censorship of news, died Friday of multiple injuries suffered when he was struck down Sunday by an automobile.

Kennedy, defying censorship, flashed the first news to the Associated Press of the surrender of Germany in World War II.

The three Allied governments had agreed to withhold this news for 24 hours.

Kennedy, associate editor of the Monterey Peninsula Herald, was hit by a car while walking home. The driver of the sports car that allegedly hit him was identified as Alice Kathleen 'O'-Connell Tornell of Monterey. Police said no charge was placed against her.

Kennedy is survived by a daughter, Julia Kennedy of Washington, D.C.

SURRENDER NEWS

On the morning of May 7, 1945, the following flash, bearing Kennedy's byline, reached the Associated Press headquarters in New York:

'Reims, France - Germany surrendered unconditionally to the Western Allies and Russia at 2:41 a.m. French time, to-

The next sentence said the German commanders signed the surrender in a schoolhouse where Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had his headquarters.

Kennedy telephoned the story from his bedroom in the Scribe Hotel in Paris. It was taken in the London office of The Associated Press, transmitted to New York, and then around the

WORLD CHEERS

Within minutes, huge throngs, gripped with joy and excitement, swept into the streets, celebrating all over the globe.

But in Washington, when correspondents raced to the White House, expecting an official announcement, President Harry S. Truman issued this statement:

"I have agreed with the London and Moscow governments that I will make no announcement with reference to surrender of the enemy forces in Europe or elsewhere until a simultaneous statement can be made by the three governments. Until then, there is nothing I can or will say to you."

Gen. Eisenhower wrote in his book, "Crusade in Europe:"

"Under the terms of the surrender document, the heads of the German armed forces were required to appear in Berlin on May 9 to sign a ratification in the Russian headquarters. The second ceremony was, as we understood it, to symbolize the unity of the Western Allies and the Soviets, to give notice to the Germans and to the world that the surrender was made to all not merely to the Western Al-

'For this reason, we were directed to withhold news of the first signing until the second could be accomplished." Eisenhower noted that "one American reporter" broke the news. He added that "the incident created a considerable furor but in the outcome no real harm was done, except to other publications."

Thompson Tells Of Discussion With Late Wife

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)
—St. Paul lawyer T. Eugene
Thompson told a jury trying him for murder Friday that he talked freely with his late wife about an affair with another woman and the insurance he bought on his wife's life.

Thompson, 36, took the stand Friday. He is on trial for the March 6 slaying of his wife, Carol, 34, with the state charging Thompson planned the killing, Norman Mastrian arranged it and Dick W. C. Anderson carried it out.

Speaking freely, but without much expression in his voice, Thompson told the jury:

He had told his wife on a Chicago trip in January 1962 about Jackie Olesen, his onetime secretary with whom he admits an affair.

He had never discussed marriage with Jackie, and had made it "very clear" he would not marry her.

He did not consider the $1 million insurance on Carol an unduly large amount.

Under questioning by defense lawyer Hyam Segell, Thompson said he admitted to his wife: "I've been doing a little running around for quite a while."

The discussion was brief, he said, with his wife replying: 'That's enough, I know all about it. I've known about it for some time. I was quite sure you'd come to your senses and would handle it in your way.

Anderson admitted earlier this week he carried out the death pact. Mastrian was not called by Prosecutor William Randall, who rested the state's case Wednesday.
